

If you enjoy guiding and helping others to achieve their success and dream
If you are good at academics and have high regard for teaching

Then, Graduate Academic Analyst Trainee will help you devise a career that is not just routine software or coding or business process outsourcing. A corporate, professional role which is data and analysis intensive and requires a great sense of responsibility and discipline. A job that is executed from a modern office with advanced software, data processing and communication technologies. A job that requires continuous learning, interacting with a variety of people and is full of intellectual and academic challenges every single day. A job that requires you to continuously learn and sharpen your knowledge and skills in the subject. A role that leads to a growing career in academic development and leadership. If you have the ability to analyse situations using various data and can communicate that understanding accurately, clearly and patiently to create impactful change, then this job might be the one you have always been waiting for. If you have prepared for or taken a test like GRE, GMAT, CAT, GATE, XAT, SAT, IELTS etc and enjoyed the process, take a look at the jobs below.

GAAT is the starting point of a promising career that depends more on your studious, academic, analytical, responsible, service-oriented and helpful nature than on any other factor or your expertise in Engineering or Programming.
