

Seminar on Environment Day 2017: Remote Sensing and GIS in Forestry and Natural Resources Management

Title:	Seminar on Environment Day 2017: Remote Sensing and GIS in Forestry and Natural Resources Management
Date:	05.06.2017 – 15.06.2017
Venue:	Fr. Melesius Hall/College
Focus of the Event:	Skill Development
Organizing Body:	Bhoomithrasena
Resource Person:	Dr. Shijo Joseph (Scientist E1, KFRI)
Total Number of Attendees:	80

Event Report

Environment Day 2017 was observed by our College in collaboration with Kerala state Council for Science, Technology and Environment (KSCSTE) with a weeklong observation from 5th to 15th of June 2017 at Sacred Heart College, Kochi. The observation comprised invited talks on Science and management of environment and conservation of nature and natural resources and competition for students. The theme for Environment Day, 2017 was ‘Connecting people to Nature’

Criterion 3: Research, Innovations and Extension

The following intercollegiate competitions were conducted as part of the programme: Poster making competition, elocution competition, debate competition, painting competition, saplings of plants, campus cleaning and open quiz competition. Dr. Shijo Joseph works on high computational algorithms for forest change assessments, field robotics for non-invasive measurements, and climate change mitigation in the Agriculture, Forestry & Other Land Use (AFOLU) sector. Dr. Joseph has more than 10 years of research experience in remote sensing, land use dynamics & climate change across Pantropics and published more than 40 research articles and reports in high impact journals. He was trained in the premier institutes includes Center for Earth Science Studies, Wildlife Institute of India, National Remote Sensing Center, ATREE, and the Center for International Forestry Research. He had traveled more than 25 countries and conducted scientific studies in most important tropical forest regions including Amazon, Congo Basin and Borneo forest. He is an expert member of the Technical Task Force on National Green House Gas Accounting of the Inter-governmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) and Editorial Board Member of the PlosOne journal.
