REPORT

IQAC of the college organized a faculty development programme on Blended Learning and Flipped Class Rooms. Blended learning is a broad term used to describe the combination of face-to-face and online delivery of teaching and learning. This FDP was aimed at inculcating the culture of blended learning and flipped class rooms among the faculty.

Principal, Rev. Fr. Johnson X Palackappillil CMI in his opening remarks stated that blended learning is a hybrid learning or mixed mode learning and is usually seen as a mix of face-to-face and online delivery. He urged the importance of following the blended learning in the current education scenario.

Technical Session:

The technical session was delivered by Mr. Aravind R Nair, Assistant Professor in the Department of English. Mr. Aravind is an expert in the field of blended learning.

The resource person explained the following components of blended learning:

- Using multiple technologies and media to deliver content.
- Providing social and emotional support
- Engaging students in dialectic and questioning activities
- Incorporating reflection and activities that require students to reflect on their learning
- Engaging in collaborative learning

Mr. Aravind also explained in detail about the aspect of flipped class rooms. He also motivated the participants to create a model class room and introduce the ideas of blended learning and flipped class rooms.
